Red Cross Auxiliary to Pack Comfort Bags—Great Need of More Help.
Tomorrow afternoon the members of the Red Cross auxiliary are to meet at the Red Cross headquarters and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hopkins' place and will pack the comfort bags that are to be forwarded to the Christian distribution to the soldiers in the hospitals and trenches in France. The response to the organization's appeal for giving toward the assembly of the bags and their contents has been gratifying, but there is so much to be done, such a great amount of suffering to be alleviated and many soldiers to be met that the auxiliary members are almost beseeching the people of surrounding towns to listen to the call for help from a land that has run red with blood.

UNCLE SAM TO LEAD

Patriotic Demonstration of C. A. C. G. A. R. S. of V. Drum Corps and Citizens.
The Thirteenth company, C. A. C. is to give a parade Friday evening and will then join the members of the Drum Corps, G. A. R. S. of V. and the members of the American Legion, to march on Main street to the state armory at 7:30, and will march north along Main street to Davis park at the soldiers' monument; thence down Broad to Cottage street, through Cottage street to Water and Main streets, to G. A. R. hall and from there up Main street to Center. An invitation has also been issued to citizens to join in the line. A huge American flag will be borne outstriated by a band of boys. After the parade members of the organizations participating will make up a big theater party.

BOSTON MILK SHIPMENT CUT OFF TUESDAY MORNING
Producers Ask More Per Can and Claim Discrimination in Favor of Vermont Shippers.
From Jewett City to Putnam milk producers who have been regular shippers to Boston via the milk car attached to the northbound boat train every morning quit in numbers Tuesday.

The body of Albert Zygumitowicz, 24, was found ground to pieces near the tracks of the Midland division near the bridge in Mechanicville Tuesday morning. Bits of the body were strewn along the tracks for many yards. The young man had been literally cut to pieces by the number of trains that it is believed passed over him after the train had accomplished its work of death. Although the body was not found until after seven o'clock Tuesday morning the man is believed to have been killed by an early evening train Monday, possibly the evening train express out of this city.

The dead man has a sister resident on Meadow street in this city. Carrying his lunch he set out just before six o'clock Monday night to walk to Mechanicville, where he had been employed as a night warden in the mill. The French railroad company. It is believed that he walked to Mechanicville along the track; that he was struck by a train and stepped onto the other track and in front of a train rushing along behind him. In any event there was no witness of the accident, which escaped the attention of the crew of the train that killed the man.

Zygumitowicz was identified by a letter found in a pocket of his coat, which had been torn from the man's day, withholding their milk and claiming that they will not ship again until they get what they consider "a fair and living price" for the product. The milk shippers were greatly reduced in number of jugs from the usual total. Only 26 jugs were shipped out of Danielson, it was claimed by the producer who kept tabs on the loading. The usual number of jugs out of Danielson each morning is from 55 to 60. It was claimed by this same producer that only 20 jugs had been collected at the stations between Jewett City and Danielson.

The fight now on between the milk producers and the Boston distributors is another chapter in the history of a long drawn out controversy over the price of the commodity. This time the producers in towns in this section of the county seem determined to fight it out to a finish. A branch of the New England Producers' union has been organized. The members of this organization are determined to have a better price for their milk than has heretofore been allowed them. H. B. Chapman, Plainfield, who stopped shipping October 1, summarized the controversy over price by stating that the farmers have been getting 41 cents for an eight and a half quart can. The counter proposition is 50 cents a can, the farmers to have the freight to Boston deducted from this price. This would, approximately, Mr. Chapman said, give the farmers 45 cents net per can. Mr. Chapman also states that the farmers hereabouts understand that the Boston concern with which local shippers have been doing business are paying two cents a can more for milk shipped from points in Vermont to Boston, the mileage being practically the same as from points hereabouts.

An effort is also being made to organize milk shippers who use the stations between Willimantic and Putnam and line them up with those who are holding out for more money for the milk. Conferences held here during the past two and three years relative to the cost of milk production seem to have convinced many farmers that in some cases they are being selling milk for less than it cost to produce.

Other contentions made Tuesday were that the Boston milk producers have a new and more rigid system of grading and that a farmer never knows what he is going to get for his milk until after it is graded. On account of the grading system, some farmers claim, the producers feel that they are really without any price contract and never know where they are at.

A few months ago a number of producers in this vicinity broke away from the Boston market and have since been shipping to Providence over the Rhode Island company's trolley line. These men shipped as usual yesterday, but were watching the interest the light of their fellow producers for better money in the Boston market.

A Correction.

NEVER LOST A GAME
Putnam Baseball Team Has a Semi-Pro Record—Sixteen Games Without Defeat.

The Putnam baseball team that closed its season Sunday can come mighty close to claiming without much successful contrary argument the championship of the semi-pro league in this section of New England. Under President Thomas McDermott the team made the remarkable record of not losing one of 16 games. Fourteen times the Putnam team were returned as victors, the other two times they played their opponents to a tie. The teams beaten were regular teams, too, not pickup or makeshift organizations. The visiting teams represented the best in southern New England and included such organizations as the Connals of New Haven and teams that included a number of big league players.

The body was taken in charge by a local undertaker and brought to this city.

CAPT. RYAN RESIGNS
Head of Police Force Tenders Resignation to Mayor.

Mayor J. J. McGarry announced Tuesday afternoon that he had received the resignation of Captain Joseph A. Ryan of the city's police force. Mayor McGarry said that the resignation will be presented to the common council for action, but he was not in a position to state what action that body would be likely to take.

The mayor had already received a suggestion, he said, that Ryan be addressed by citizens requesting that Capt. Ryan be requested to remain in his position.

Capt. Ryan has been the active head of the police department since last January. He has been a very efficient officer and during his months of service had made a splendid record in conducting the affairs of the department.

Shipment of Milk Stopped.
The holding up of milk from the Boston market by producers that make Putnam a shipping point was not noticeable here Tuesday, when towns to the south reported that a number of shippers had stopped sending milk to the milk car that runs up from Jewett City and that they, these shippers, were prepared to hold out for better prices.

It was stated here that the shipment from Putnam Tuesday morning was about up to average; that the average shipment from here is 23 to 25 jugs daily and that 23 jugs went out Tuesday morning.

TOWN MAP FINISHED
City Engineer George W. Perry Finishes Fine Piece of Work.

City Engineer George W. Perry has completed the map of the town of Putnam in accordance with a vote at a town meeting just over a year ago at which time $1,000 was appropriated to meet the cost of the survey.

The map is a great piece of work and will prove invaluable to the assessors and to the people of the city generally. It is drawn in 25 sections and in addition there are sections for the indexes. The map shows every piece of land and all buildings in the town. Not only is all property shown as well as the name of owners, condition of the land, whether swampy, tillable, hilly, wooded, number of acres, etc.

In the making Mr. Perry discovered numerous flaws in what has been heretofore regarded as accurate information concerning properties of the town. He has found some properties that have been escaping taxation, others that were not taxed in accordance with their condition. And, on the other hand, he has found some instances of over-taxation, as in the case of one parcel of land that has been zoned into the lists as 10 acres and paid upon as such when in reality it contained but seven acres.

The survey entailed a great amount of work, really a great deal more than the appropriation would ordinarily provide for.

NOANK
Village Improvement Association Organizes—Will Work for Fire Protection and Lights—Miss Sarah J. Allen Suffers a Shock.

At a meeting of the Village Improvement association held in the firemen's hall Monday evening it was voted to continue the organization chiefly for the purpose of forming, or assisting to form, a fire department and to light the streets of the village by the taxation plan. It will also be necessary to secure the water supply in the same manner, though perhaps not immediately.

The following officers were chosen with this end in view: President, Dr. E. P. Fitch; vice president, Dr. W. M. Hill; secretary, Judge A. P. Anderson. A meeting for further discussion will be held in three weeks, when probably the question will be settled.

Teacher Suffers a Shock.
Miss Sarah J. Allen, for 17 years a teacher in the primary department of the Noank school, going this year to West Mystic as teacher, suffered a shock a few days ago and is in Lawrence hospital at present. A neighbor, Mrs. Minnie Stewart, making a call early in the morning, found Miss Allen helpless on her bed, her face pale, she had lain all night. The paralysis is on her left side and she is in a serious condition.

New Station Probable.
The railroad station here is being scraped preparatory to being painted. It is said there will be a new building erected early in the spring in the lot opposite the present building.

Scouts to Play Basketball.
The Boy Scouts are to organize a basketball team for playing out of town this winter. There will be no games allowed in the town hall, which has recently been repaired and put in fine condition.
